LOCAL BRIEFS—

This section has been visited by heavy rain storms during the last two days.

Mr. J. D. Whitaker has for sale two thousand cords of best pine wood cheap.

A roll of forty yards of the heaviest kind of matting for sale by Nat. L. Brown. See notice.

Dr. J. R. H. Carmer announces that hereafter the business of his drug store will be conducted strictly upon the cash basis. See special notice.

We continue to hear the most flattering accounts of the crop prospects in this section, and should the seasons continue favorable our farmers generally will obtain happy returns this year from their labors.

A number of supboenas were yesterday sent to Panther Branch Township to compel the attendance before the Grand Jury of certain parties, with a view of trying to ferret out the supposed murder of Scot Partin's wife and child.

We invite especial attention to the advertisement in another column of the Davenport Female College, located in Lenoir county. The fall session of this school will begin on the first Monday in August.

Caldwell, of the Charlotte Observer, wants us to potograph the potato bug for the News. We are afraid to go into that "special artist" business, Caldwell, for fear the artist might play the same trick on us he did on you in the No. 1 in your art gallery.

We are Becoming Solicitous—About the health of the venerable Editor of the Sentinel. He has positively said nothing about "hair on the hollow" for three whole weeks. What can be the matter? We fear he is in failing health.

PERSONAL.—We had the pleasure of a visit from Mr. Jno. M. Moring, one of the members of the House of Representatives from Chatham county. We are pleased to learn from him that Chatham will undoubtedly send two good men to the State Convention, and that by a handsome majority.

Col. Wm. L. Saunders of the Wilmington Journal, is also in the city and stopping at the Yarborough.

☞ Persons leaving the city for the Summer can have the DAILY NEWS sent to them for 75 cents per month, postage prepaid. The address may be changed as often as desirable.

AUCTION SALE.—A lot of saddles, harness, oil cloths, trunks, knives and forks, looking-glasses and a host of notions, will be sold at auction to-day at the Prairie store, 31 Fayetteville street. See advertisement.

A DIVIDEND.—The Raleigh National Bank has declared, as will be seen by its notice in this issue, a dividend of four per cent for the last six months. This is an evidence of good management in hard times, and also that a portion of the community are still able to be humbugged. We hope the fortunate stockholders will be liberal in the distribution of their benefits, for the cry of hard times comes up with a mighty wail.

THE CONCERT AT PEACE INSTITUTE.—In our notice yesterday of the Concert at Peace Institute Wednesday evening, much to our regret, we inadvertently failed to do justice to the exquisite rendering of Terry's Vocal Solo, "Come my bark is moving," as sung by Miss Minna Pasick, of Mebaneville. Encore after encore greeted the conclusion of this piece, so charmed were the listeners by the flexible and highly cultivated voice of the fair singer.

ADJOURNED.—The committee of the Board of Trustees of the University, in connection with the Faculty, which have been in session in this city for the last three days, adjourned yesterday, after having accomplished much looking to the preparations necessary to the opening of the University in September next. We shall publish to-morrow so much of the proceedings as we may be enabled to obtain. It is understood the committee will recommend the election of a President.

THE REV. MR. ROBY.—This gentleman, the scholarly President of Davenport Female College, is spending his vacation in traveling in the interest of that college. We had the pleasure of a visit from him last evening. He will remain in the city a few days, and will preach at Person Street Church Sunday morning and evening. President Roby is an eloquent and able divine, and his style is always attractive and interesting. He goes from Raleigh to Beaufort to deliver a Sunday School address, on the 11th, and will then return, by invitation, to deliver an address before the Educational Association, which meets in this city on the 14th of the present month.

SUPERIOR COURT.—In this Court yesterday several criminal cases were tried, among them that of the State vs. Wiley Clifton, (white,) and John Wilkinson, (col.) for Arson. They were indicted for the burning of the gin-house of M. A. Bledsoe in this vicinity in November last. The State was unable to produce testimony necessary to a conviction. One important witness having died, and one being absent, it was compelled to render a verdict of "not guilty."

Three or four negroes were sentenced to the Penitentiary for larceny.

A colored individual hailing from Alabama, was indicted at the instance of a colored brother, for stealing a small amount of money. The defendant is a stranger here, and claims to be in search of his mother. The accused plead his own case, and excited a good deal of interest by his earnestness and ingenuity. He was sentenced to the work house until he had worked out the costs of the prosecution.

THE COTTON STATES CONGRESS.—The second annual session of the Cotton States Agricultural Congress will convene in this city on Tuesday the 13th inst. This body is composed of delegates from the various Agricultural Societies and Granges throughout the Cotton States, which association was organized in Atlanta last year, and of which Col. D. E. Butler, of Atlanta, was made President, and who will be present and preside at the approaching meeting. The second annual session was invited to meet in this city by Capt. R. T. Fulghum, the Secretary of the State Agricultural Society, representing in this invitation the Society, the Board of Trade of Raleigh, and Messrs. Heck & Lobdell, of the Iron Works at Leaksville.

The following committees have been appointed to make all arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the guests on the occasion:

From the State Agricultural Society.—Messrs. T. M. Holt, J. G. Winder, Walter Clarke, J. D. Whitted, L. J. Young, D. M. Carter, and P. E. Hines.

From the State Grange.—Messrs. John Griffin, A. T. Mial, J. D. Whitaker, R. C. Mably, and R. T. Fulghum.

From the Raleigh Board of Trade—L. H. Adams, B. L. Bingham, A. M. McKesson and John Nichols.

The gentlemen comprising these committees are requested to meet at the office of Major J. C. Winder this afternoon at 5 o'clock, to collect to effect all necessary arrangements for the meeting of the Congress.

There will be a match game between the Athletic and Swift Foot base-ball clubs at the Baptist Grove this afternoon.

"Old Prob" gives us to-day lower barometer with decidedly warm and partly cloudy weather, with light rains.

THE EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.—The third annual meeting of the Educational Association of the State will convene in this city on the 14th inst. The attendance will doubtless be large.

KITTRELL'S SPRINGS.—Mr. K. W. Coghill announces in another column that he has furnished some 15 or 20 nice, large and cool rooms at these Springs for the Summer, and is prepared to accommodate a limited number of invalids. Persons wishing to take advantage of this opportunity to obtain a pleasant, convenient and comfortable Summer resort should apply at once.

Stone from the Blooms Grove quarry, near Manassas, Va., is being shipped to Raleigh, N. C., to be used in the construction of the new State house now in progress of erection there.

We found the above floating through several of our Northern exchanges, and have taken the trouble to enquire into it. Every particle of stone being used in the erection of the government building is from North Carolina quarries. We have nothing to say against the Virginia rock, but feel a pride in the fact that North Carolina can furnish an abundance of her own material.

SUPREME COURT.—This Court met yesterday at 10 o'clock, all the Justices present. The following cases were argued:

R. D. Whitley et al., vs. A. A. Alexander et al., from Mecklenburg, R. Barringer, Vance & Dowd and Shipp & Bailey for plaintiffs, and Wilson & Son and Jones & Johnston for defts.

Merchants and Farmers National Bank of Charlotte, vs. W. R. Rogers, Willis & Son vs. Jones & Johnston, from Mecklenburg. Wilson & Son for plaintiff and Jones & Johnston for defts.

RALEIGH HIGH SCHOOL.—The school so favorably known as the Raleigh Home School under the management of Mr. Charles H. Scott will begin its second annual session on 1st day of September under new auspices and with a much enlarged area of usefulness. The learned and distinguished Dr. Joseph W. Atkinson for so many years the Pastor, of the Presbyterian Church of this city, eminent both for his piety and his learning, will be associated with Mr. Scott.

This will somewhat equalize the present disparity it in the facilities for the education of the two sexes. Raleigh is now and for some time past celebrated for the number and excellence of its female schools. But the boys have been comparatively slighted. Mr. Lovejoy has done much to supply the deficiency and the Home School of Mr. Scott has done its part; still there is not that interest felt in the education of boys that should stimulate parents in so important a matter.

The school of Mr. Scott with its increased facilities and greater means of instruction is, however, an evidence that attention is being awakened, to the subject of male education. And we hope that the Raleigh High School will expand into such an institution as may correspond with the growing population and consequence of this city.

See advertisement in another column.

PATRIOTIC RESOLUTIONS.—The Conservatives of Beaufort county, in session on Saturday last, nominated Mr. James E. Shepherd for the State Convention. The following resolutions were adopted by the meeting:

Resolved 1. That in the election of James E. Shepherd as the nominee of the Conservative party, this convention has selected a Conservative upright, capable, and well worthy to bear our standard to victory.

Resolved 2. That it becomes every member of this convention, and every Conservative in Beaufort and Pamlico counties, to see that our champion is elected.

Resolved 3. That in the present attitude and condition of the Republican party, we recognize the existence of fraud, corruption and dishonesty.

Resolved 4. That we denounce any attempt upon the part of any so-called Conservative to fasten upon these counties here represented any other candidate for the Convention than the one here nominated and endorsed.

The tomb of Light-Horse Harry Lee, grandfather of Fitz, is not in Virginia. He was buried in the family burial-ground of General Nathaniel Greene, in the beautiful island of Cumberland off the coast of Georgia. There to this day his grave may be seen, and on the stone which covers it is this simple inscription: "Sacred to the Memory of General Henry Lee, of Virginia. Obit. 25 March, 1818. Æat. 63." The Norfolk Virginian says the plantation of Dungeness, owned by the venerable Greene, and where now rest the remains of the immortal Harry Lee, was one of the most lovely spots in the world before the late war, but left into neglect during that fiery period, and is now overgrown with weeds and is a wild waste. But it matters little where their ashes sleep whose virtues have imparted to him perpetual renown on the rolls of fame and an everlasting monument in the hearts of his countrymen.

Speaker of U. S. H. R. DeWitt, of Richmond, Va.—Hysteria and Melancholy the Cause.

The tragedy has already announced the suicide Wednesday morning of Col. DeWitt, of Richmond, Va., but we condense the following additional particulars of the sad affair from the Richmond Dispatch of Thursday:

Colonel Thomas H. DeWitt, secretary of the Board of Public Works and of the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, committed suicide in the parlor of his residence, No. 610 North Sixth street, yesterday morning about 6:45 o'clock. He got up, as usual, about sunrise, slipped on his pants and, without his shoes, went to the front porch, as was his custom, to get the morning paper. Mrs. DeWitt and one servant had breakfast, the other members of the household were abed. Mrs. DeWitt was in the bathroom, when she was alarmed by the sound of a fire-arm in the house. She immediately sent Hannah Robinson, the colored servant, to find out what had occurred.

Hannah, upon entering the parlor, saw Colonel DeWitt seated in a chair in a corner near a book-case. A small Smith and Wesson sporting-rifle was between his legs and blood was gushing from his head and streaming down his face. An alarm was given, and members of the family and neighbors were called in and a physician summoned, but to no purpose, as life was wholly extinct.

It seemed that Colonel DeWitt had been upon the porch steps, and thence gone into the parlor, as his socks were damp. He had drawn off one sock, evidently with the purpose of pulling the trigger of the rifle with his great toe. Whether or not he fired it in that way is not known. The muzzle had, however, been placed between his teeth, and the ball went through the palate of the mouth and came out at the crown of his head, making a hole as large as a silver dollar. The ball lodged in the ceiling, and brains were freely bespattered around it; and several small pieces of the skull fell upon the piano and floor. The body did not drop from the chair, but toppled to the right, where it was held in position within an angle formed by the chair and library-case.

The following letter from Dr. McCaw, his family physician, was read before the Coroner's jury:

RICHMOND, June 30, 1875.

Dr. W. H. Taylor Coroner:

Dear Sir,—But for previous engagements I would be present at the inquest of Mr. DeWitt to give a history of his disease for some twelve months. He has had organic disease of the brain coming on for a long time, slowly breaking up its functions and producing hysteria, melancholy, and at last such depressing symptoms as to drive him to the rash act.

I do not regard it as lunacy primarily, but the result of, probably, ramollissement cerebri [softening of the brain.]

Yours respectfully,
J. B. McCAW.

The deceased was a native of New York, but removed to Virginia in early manhood and has occupied various public positions.

WHAT ONE CHECK DID.—[From the New Haven Journal and Courier.]—As an instance of what one check accomplished, and how its meanderings terminated, it is stated that one was drawn by a prominent gentleman of this city about two weeks ago for about $800, and was passed by the endorser to a lumber firm in this city. From thence it went to seven other concerns, and finally found its way to the original endorser of it. The last endorser happened to be one who was in arrears to the drawer, and, seeing his name to the check and the rounds the check had gone and the good it had done, concluded he would "do something" handsome to the drawer, and paid it over. That check liquidated several thousand dollars worth of accounts.

A REMINDER.—Do not forget about the second potato crop; or the turnips; or the late cabbage. Do not omit to sow "those peas"—it is now time. Did you not intend to try a little buckwheat? or millet? Would it not be well to plant a larger sweet potato crop? It will pay to raise them for hogs alone. They will do the digging, and save your back for you. And they will not grumble if all are not big potatoes. Continue to make additions to your compost heaps. Whitewash the interior of stables. It is a critical time with poultry. Give them some grain daily, and clean water impregnated with iron or alum. Keep off diseases by keeping yards and buildings cleanly. Do some handsome or liberal thing, or something to improve your home each day.

Here, from "Green's History of the English People," is a good word for Wallace: "The instinct of the Scotch people has guided it aright in choosing Wallace for its national hero. He was the first to sweep aside the technicalities of feudal law and to assert freedom as a national birthright. Amid the despair of nobles and priests he called the people itself to arms, and his discovery of the military value of the stout peasant footman, who had till then been scorned by baronage and knighthood—a discovery copied by the burghers of Flanders and repeated in the victories of the Swiss—gave a death blow to the system of feudalism, and changed in the end, the face of Europe."

"Well, Mr. Miller, said a Yankee, proudly, to a travelling Scot, as they stood by the Falls of Niagara, "is it not wonderful? In your country you never saw anything like that?" "Little that!" said the Scot; "there's a far mair wonderfu' concern no two miles fra whar I was born." "Indeed!" exclaimed Jonathan, with an air of supercilious skepticism, "and pray what kind of concern may it be?" "Weel, man," replied Sawney, "it's a peesmak with a reek on leg."

LICE.—A simple remedy is a strong infusion of tobacco, rubbed well into the hide twice a day. Another remedy, but not quite this economical cooling, is a solution of kerosene in soft soap. The oils being exceedingly offensive, a strict attention to cleanliness will prevent their re-appearance.

BURIED ALIVE.

A Member of the Legislature Lost in a Bottomless Quagmire.

The Powelton correspondent of the Atlanta Herald writes that in Boggs county, on the road leading from Marshallville to Prattville, and ten miles from the former town, resides a well-to-do farmer by the name of Myrup. His amiable and loved wife early after breakfast had taken her infant child, about eighteen months old, in her arms and gone off in search of a fine and favorable milch cow.

On coming home from the field to his dinner Mr. M. learned that his wife and sweet little prattler had not made their appearance. Almost frantic with fear and excitement for their safety, knowing that a very large bear had been seen in the swamp near by only a few days before, he put out immediately in search of the missing ones. All the hired men and women on the place turned out, and, each taking a different direction, the whole country was ransacked for several miles around. The neighbors also, as the sad news reached them, joined in the search. The sun was just about sinking behind the Western hills when the miserable husband was returning up a small branch that had its source at his spring, and as he was anxiously but almost hopelessly looking in every direction while passing along, he descried in a patch of luxuriant grass, in a marsh a few paces off, something like a piece of gingham. He stood horrified and motionless for a moment or two, and his heart almost stopped pulsating as the thought rushed to his frenzied brain that the object he saw might be his wife's bonnet, and that both she and his darling boy might be buried in the fathomless quagmire over the centre of which lay this relic. Approaching to within a safe distance of this miry pit, he discovered the grass turned downward and the surface of the slough broken and depressed, showing that some living body had fallen in and had been struggling greatly to get out. Very soon one of the neighbors and two of the freedmen belonging to the farm came up. Mr. M. had already explored to the depth of his arm in mire, but found no further traces of the unfortunate ones. A pole twelve or fifteen feet long was now obtained and sent down its full length, but neither could anything be felt nor the bottom touched. Another rod, longer than the first, was then fastened to it, and the same examination made, with a like result.

Any further attempt to recover the bodies was therefore deemed useless. It was accordingly decided to desist, and the party, which had by this time increased to thirty-five or forty persons, all set out for their respective homes, just as the pall of night began to wrap the earth in darkness.

At this juncture the state of Mr. M.'s mind, who had to be carried away by force, can better be imagined than described. His agonizing cries and groans were pitiful, indeed, and most painful to hear.

This quagmire had been known to all the occupants of the farm from its earliest settlement, but never till then was any conception formed of its immense depth. Full thirty feet of it had been sounded, yet its lowest part, if any it has, is still to be ascertained. The mean diameter of the pit proper, for some 15 feet down, is about 3½ feet.

Rising for the Water Boy.

A good story is told of a verdant one who was passenger in a railway express train, and became thirsty.

"Where's that 'ere boy with the water can?" he queried of his next neighbor.

"He has gone forward to the baggage car, I suppose," was the reply.

"Well, d'ye s'pose I kin git him back here again?"

"Certainly," said the other, "you have only to ring for him;" and he nodded toward the bell line that ran above their heads.

No sooner said than done. Before any one could prevent it, Rustic had seized the line and gave it a tremendious tug. The consequences were obvious; three shrill whistles were heard, half dozen breakesmen ran to their post, and the train came to a stand still with a suddenness that startled all the passengers with astonishment, and caused every man at window to hoist it and look out to see what was the matter.

In a few minutes the conductor, red and excited came foaming into the car to know who pulled the bell rope.

"Here, mister, this way. I'am the man," shouted the offender, drawing all eyes upon him.

"You I" said the conductor. "What did you do it for?"

"Cos I wanted some water."

"Wanted some water?"

"Sartin: I wanted the water boy, and my partner here in the rear said I'd better ring for him, 'cos we do at the hotel, an' so I yanked the rope. Will he be long soon? An' by the by what hinderance you stoppin' for."

The chief of laughter that greeted this honest confession, was too much for the conductor, and he had to wait until he got his train under way before he explained the mysteries of the bell rope to his verdant customer.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

A SELF-ADVERTISING REMEDY.—There are certain proprietary articles that advertise themselves. Among these are Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It may be truly said of this celebrated remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, and antidote to malaria, that the contents of every bottle is an advertisement, since its good effects are manifest and palpable. Invalids themselves set in variably to effect favorable comment from those who see it. This is particularly true in rural neighborhoods invaded by chills and fever, and other forms of malarial, for which it is a specific. Such disorders being of frequent occurrence, the question "What is the best remedy and safeguard?" naturally presents itself to every body in this vicinity, and the subject of general inquiry. A family benefitted by the Bitters communicates the fact to the neighbors, who in turn become patrons of the great remedy and spread its efficacy. This depicting of the modus operandi of the popularity of American household medicines, and why its popularity is continuously on the increase.

Besides continuing their Day School they propose taking a limited number of boys of good character and conduct to board in their own family.
The training of the school, as heretofore, will be full, thorough and accurate, preparing its pupils for college or for business life.

ADDRESS OF THE EXECUTIVE DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE TO THE PEOPLE OF NORTH CAROLINA!

ROOMS OF THE DEMOCRATIC CONSERVATIVE CENTRAL EX. COM.,
RALEIGH, June 1st, '75.

To the People of North Carolina:

The General Assembly at its recent session called a Convention of the people to meet at Raleigh on the 6th day of September next, for the purpose of suggesting such alterations in our organic law as may be deemed wise and expedient.

NECESSITY FOR CHANGE.

The necessity for changing many of the provisions of the existing Constitution is generally admitted, and is too apparent to require extended argument. It is true that some of our prominent men at one time opposed the call for a convention; but their action was based on prudential consideration, and not on an indisposition to have the Constitution thoroughly revised. They feared that our purpose in seeking to reform our Fundamental Law, might be misconstrued by the violent and ill-informed men then controlling Congress, and the prosperity of our people checked, and the peace of the State jeopardized by some harsh and unconstitutional action on the part of the United States authorities. That fear no longer exists. We now have every assurance that the Constitution of the United States will be observed by the officers of the Government, and feel a satisfaction in announcing to you that the time has at last arrived when the officials at Washington City concede that the people of North Carolina have the same right to manage their local concerns which the citizens of other States enjoy. We can proceed without apprehension to perfect our Constitution and remodel it in the interests of our people.

THE CONSTITUTION, THE CREATURE OF MILITARY LAW.

This Constitution, the creature of Military dictation, was born in the throes of a Military reconstruction. Its authors were mainly Sciolists and adventurers, who had lived among us without preferment, or possessed of qualifications entitling them to it; others were our recent slaves, who had known no law save the will of their masters, and others still were carpet-baggers, both black and white—alien in feeling and Radical in education—who sought positions here that were denied them where known—to despoil and humiliate us. And when their work was submitted to the people at the polls, thousands of our best citizens were deprived of the right of voting upon it, and over eighty thousand ignorant negroes were given the ballot to secure its adoption. It is no exaggeration to say that not one person in ten who voted for it could read the instrument, and not one in fifty had read it or was even moderately familiar with its provisions, and many gave it their support beleiving it would be merely temporary, and to escape further agitation and revolution. It is natural therefore that a Constitution thus formed and adopted should be found unsuited to our condition, and that we should embrace the earliest opportunity consistent with reason and prudence to secure such changes as time and experience have shown to be necessary. Our organic law should be expressed in language clear, simple and perspicuous, so that nothing may be left to inference or construction; our rights, so precisely defined as to be comprehended by all men of ordinary intelligence; and each department of the government should be so restricted, that while left free to discharge its appropriate duties, it cannot by unwarranted encroachments embarrass the proper action of the others.

THE CONSTITUTION UNSUITED TO OUR CONDITION.

That the Constitution contains some good provisions no one denies; it would be singular if it did not, but its abominable characteristics were so manifest that not a single Conservative member of the Convention that passed it could be induced to affix his signature to it, as a fit instrument to be submitted to the people, indeed its provisions are so loosely worded and so badly arranged as to constitute but a medley of inconsistencies that defies the successful construction of the courts; in fact, to reconcile the difficulties arising from its practical workings, the court has in some instances been driven to supply omissions, and in others to introduce a new principle, hitherto unknown in the judicial history of our State, distinguished as "judicial legislation," an innovation anti-republican in character and invasive of the rights and duties of a separate department. Its provisions are so obscure that within the brief space of its existence many more decisions on constitutional questions have been demanded than in the entire previous history of the State—and of late we have witnessed the extraordinary spectacle of two sets of judges in both the second and eighth Judicial Districts, contending for the same position, one of which claiming to hold by an appointment from the Governor for a period of ten years, an office that the Constitution seems to say is to be filled by the people at the polls, and whose term is expressed to be only eight years.

In many counties, there is a practical denial of justice, the courts are inadequate to the public demands, and time they are driven to resort to special terms, which are expensive and unsatisfactory, and persons accused of criminal offenses are often confined for months without trial. We need a speedier justice and a less expensive judiciary system. We should abolish every useless office, which is now filled by a mere consumer; for only by a rigid and prudent economy in our public as well as private affairs, can we hope to restore our former prosperity. It is believed that the laws will be more impartially administered by a return to the old practice of a rotation of the Judges.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CRIMINAL LAW NECESSARY.

It is also hoped that a greater incentive to honesty and a purification of the ballot box might result from depriving those who are convicted of infamous crimes of the elective franchise.

The matter of the Penitentiary which already contains more than six hundred able-bodied men, also demands careful and practical attention, to remove if possible measure that bu den from our shoulders. Most of our private legislation should be excluded from the General Assembly. However, our limited space does not permit us to catalo.ue the numerous defects and imperfections of the present constitution to enumerate the remedies to be offered.

There should be some general ordinance adopted in relation to private enactments, thereby reducing the expenses of the Legislature, and in order to prevent hasty and inconsiderate legislation that no new matters be brought forward within —— days of their adjourning.

CAREFUL SELECTION OF DELEGATES.

As to the specific changes that ought to be made, these are to be considered by the citizens of the various counties, who should be careful to select as delegates those who will properly reflect their wishes. Men of enlarged and practical statesmanship, spotless character, and whose interests are identified with the prosperity of society, and whose positions among them will entitle them to confidence and support—and in their hands they certainly can safely confide their rights than in the Convention of 1868.

METHODS OF CHANGE.

Of the methods prescribed for altering the Constitution, that by legislative enactment is expensive, uncertain and dangerous; the several amendments recently submitted to and ratified by the people encompass the greatest difficulties in their passage, and even after the people was declared in their favor by over 40,000 majority, serious apprehensions were entertained as to whether they were properly adopted; again, legislatures, when possessed of qualifications to act, are encumbered with much business, and cannot bring that attention to each provision presented for consideration, without meeting such criticisms as may imperil their labors.

The Convention method is speedy and economical, the body is composed of the same number of members as compose the House of Representatives, and their

The State Legislature had indeed authority to impose an oath upon the members of the Convention, but the people called the act of the Legislature by which this oath was imposed "an act of usurpation," and declared that they would not obey it, and would punish all persons who should take it or refuse obedience to the ordinances thereafter promulgated. We are not aware that any Convention called by the people, but proceeding in the manner here pointed out, was ever required by any Legislature to take an oath to support the Constitution and laws of the United States, and others. We will dismiss the subject, however, by calling attention to the able work of Judge Jameson on "Constitutional Conventions," where, by arguments and the cases cited by him in relation to the matter, he demonstrates that Conventions are bound to obey the restrictions imposed by the Legislature in the Act calling the Convention.

AID FROM REPUBLICANS.

In our last election it was gratifying to see Republicans who had hitherto embittered the contest by their misrepresentations under an mistaken belief that they were promoting the general welfare, seeing the corruptness as demonstrated by the "Credit Mobilier revelations," "Sanborn Contracts," and other frauds and defalcations, and their vindictive persecution of Governors whereby they sought to degrade the superior race by this iniquitous "Civil Rights Bill," overcome their party prejudices and give us their cordial support. To them we extend an invitation to join with us and continue the work so auspiciously begun, for those who oppose us under the delusion of their leaders, who assured them this fall would never pass Congress and if it did would be vetoed by the President, though it now has his signature; and who have witnessed the earnestness with which the dangerous "Force Bill" was urged and Congress, we say to them no longer resort to fierce bitterness of party hatred to North Carolinian. The battle for civil liberty is not yet over. "Civil Rights" is still a part of the secret carpet bag programme for this State; though driven from the halls of Congress, it will be renewed in the Southern States We therefore invite their co-operation The Convention owes its final success to the support of some of their ablest representatives in the General Assembly and they are entitled to the award of the wise provisions introduced into the Convention of 1868, by their ablest native representatives were scouted and defeated by that same element that has brought ruin upon their party and confusion to our State.

NECESSITY OF ORGANIZATION.

The friends of Convention should at once perfect their organization and put in force their best men in every county in the State. The leaders of the Republican party know that by their reckless violations of the constitution and efforts to centralize all power in the hands of the General Government; they have justly forfeited the confidence and support of the people; they therefore trust not to their own strength but to our apathy, and will endeavor to secure our defeat by divisions and false leaders. We therefore earnestly invite their attention to the following resolution adopted and successfully acted on in our last campaign:

Resolved, That we earnestly recommend to the members of the Democratic Conservative party to discourage independent candidates and all other disorganizers, that all support be promptly withdrawn from every aspirant for office who shall oppose the regular nominees of our Conventions. Let your primary county Conventions be duly advertised and see that the people have a full opportunity of attending and expressing their wishes. The contest is important not only in its immediate effects but in subsequent results. The Republican party, under the leadership of carpet-baggers still remaining among us, will advocate the election of delegates, who will agree to meet and to journ without holding a Convention, and this in violation of the wishes of the people, expressed through a two-thirds majority of the chosen representatives, and after a considerable part of the session for mileage and per diem is incurred. We believe, however, the promise is but a delusion and snare, for should they ascertain they have a majority in the body, it will be an easy matter for them to evade their promise by the refusal of a few to concur; and they will not acknowledge the "restrictions" as binding, they will resort to the most revolutionary measures to sustain their desperate fortunes, and in the end will defy the people to bring their work to the people for ratification or rejection.

Let us, therefore, present a united front, and with a general advance along our lines Radicalism will be only be routed but overwhelmed, and a victory for Civil Liberty assured for 1876.

MESSRS. DENSLOW & BUSH, New York.

Gentlemen—We drove at this place a well, totally destroyed by fire on the 7th of last instant. On removing the rubbish from the ruins we discovered some cans of your "Premium Safety Oil," and some of them had the nozzles melted off, and others were firmly soldered up by the intense heat to which they had been subjected, but the oil was yet in them, thus having neither exploded nor burned, it affords me much pleasure to add my testimony to the great superiority of your Premium Safety Oil" for illuminating purposes, as well as for the protection of life and property.
